

Senior Trusts & Foundations Officer

Hours: Part-time – 2 days / 16 hours per week (around 10 days per month, flexible working)

Contract type: Consultant

Location: Remote within the UK, with ability to travel to London and Oxford on occasional basis

Fee: £250 per day – approximately £2,500 per month for 10 days, (£65,000 full-time equivalent)

Application deadline: Friday 10th October 2025 (applications reviewed on a rolling basis, early submission encouraged)

About Plant your Future

Plant your Future is a grassroots international environmental charity with a bold vision: to restore the Amazon rainforest.

We work hand-in-hand with smallholder Amazonian farming families, helping them adopt regenerative agroforestry practices that restore degraded land, protect biodiversity and create sustainable, resilient livelihoods.

Through our model, farmers grow native trees alongside crops, producing sustainably harvested fruit, timber and carbon credits. This approach not only combats climate change and biodiversity loss—it empowers farmers with long-term income and ownership over their land's restoration.

Since our founding, we've partnered with 62 rural communities in the Peruvian Amazon and planted over 900,000 trees across 248 farms. As we scale up to reach one million trees and beyond, we are seeking a skilled and motivated Senior Trusts & Foundations Officer to help grow and diversify our income.

The Role

This is a fantastic opportunity for an experienced trust fundraiser to take ownership of a strong portfolio of charitable trusts and foundations, developing long-term relationships and securing the grants and donations that will enable us to expand our impact.

You will:

- Write clear, persuasive and tailored funding proposals and reports to inspire and engage funders.
 - Manage and develop relationships with existing trust and foundation supporters, ensuring excellent stewardship and timely impact reporting.
 - Research and cultivate new funding opportunities—currently at small to medium grant levels—with the aim of building a pipeline that increasingly secures five-figure grants.
 - Work closely with the Managing Director and colleagues in Peru to develop compelling cases for support and contribute to ambitious income targets.
-

About You

- A proven track record of securing grants from trusts and foundations, including at small and medium levels.
 - Excellent written skills and the ability to create clear, compelling proposals and impact reports.
 - Strong relationship-building skills and experience of working with multiple stakeholders and decision-makers.
 - Highly organised, proactive and motivated to meet income targets.
 - Passionate about environmental protection, sustainable livelihoods and our mission to restore the Amazon rainforest.
 - Able to manage your own work and targets independently as well as be part of a team.
-

Why Join Us

This is a unique opportunity to contribute to real, lasting change—supporting Amazonian farming families to regenerate their land and livelihoods while restoring one of the planet’s most vital and threatened ecosystems.

As a small, ambitious team, we offer a chance to work with purpose, creativity and flexibility. Your ideas and initiative will be valued, and your work will directly shape the future of our impact.

How to Apply

Please send your CV and a short cover letter to jennyhenman@plantyourfuture.org.uk, explaining:

- ☐ Why you're passionate about Plant your Future's mission, and
- ☐ The skills and experience you would bring to the role.

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis and may close early, so early submission is encouraged.